

Sydney Morning Herald Archive, Thursday, July 27, 1989

New theory on missing TV man

Missing Wollongong TV weatherman Ross Warren may have staged his own disappearance after leaving a friend's house in Albert Street, Redfern, in the early hours of Saturday morning, say police.

While not speculating on a motive, a police spokesman said they were investigating such a possibility.

His bank accounts are being monitored. One officer said that police received new evidence yesterday.

Mr Warren is understood to have gone back to the Redfern home of Mr Craig Ellis after they had spent Friday night at hotels in the Taylor Square/Oxford Street area.

It is understood he left Mr Ellis's place at 2.30 am on Saturday morning and said he was going for a drive to Bondi.

Mr Ellis said last night he had been instructed Mr Warren's parents not to speak to the press.