Hi Jackie

I just received this email from Professor David Dixon from UNSW.

He is a researcher in good standing with us, and would be a reliable and credible person to look at the Parabell material.

I sent him the information you provided me, but you may wish to speak with him to organise a quote, I think that would make up the three.

Regards

Chris

Hi Chris

I'm about to finish my time as dean in a few weeks, so will have time for new projects during some research leave

My interest in this project is primarily about how general issues in investigation (reviewing assumptions, managing evidence, avoiding tunnel vision, connecting incidents, etc) apply in the specific circumstances of (what may or not be) hate crimes. My minor interest is that some of this was happening when I spent time with police in Bondi in 1989-90, so I've kept an interest in the story

Contact details below

Best wishes

David

Hi Chris,
 Professor David Dixon is interested in knowing more about this. I have copied David into this email so that you have his contact details.

Best wishes,
 Julie

Hi Julie

I wonder if you saw this email from back on the 6/5?

Regards

Chris

Hi Julie,

You might remember I mentioned in an email that we have a project that you may be interested in.

The NSW Police Force has been undertaking a review (under the name Strikeforce Parabell) of a series of investigations into the a series of deaths known as the gay hate murders, which involved 88 deaths during the 70's, 80's and 90's.

It has been decided that it would be valuable to have an independent assessment or evaluation of the strikeforce's approach and results.

This would involve:

An examination of the process and method used to conduct SP including the application of NSWPF Bias Crime indicators

- Access and review original source materials as needed
- Research and provide an introductory section detailing the historical context of policing during this period and a commentary on investigating deaths of men identified as gay or transgender during this period
- Provide a conclusion including comment on the efficacy and quality of SP's review, the outcomes of the review, does the researcher agree with SP outcomes/determinations?
- Provide recommendations for future policing, community engagement, training, development of bias crime indicators/processes
- Provide relevant recommendations for future directions of the GLLO program
- Produce and publish a research article
- Throughout this entire process maintain close contact with the Corporate Sponsor Sexuality & Gender Diversity

and the Senior Programs Officer (S&GD)

I wonder if you and some colleagues would be interested in submitting a quote for the work. If so, let me know, and I will put you into the contact with the relevant people.

Regards

Chris
