STATUTORY DECLARATION

I, 142 of [redacted] in the State of New South Wales,

do solemnly and sincerely declare as follows:

On Saturday 27th September 1980 my friend NP58 came to my home in his yellow escort at about 7.45 PM - then drove me to Belfield RSL club where we arrived at about 8.30 PM. There was only the two of us in the vehicle.

NP58 parked - locked the vehicle in the street because there was no room in the car park.

We met friends inside the club where we attend a disco until about 12.30 AM. In all there would have been about 15 people present at the disco.

It was the first time either NP58 or myself attended the RSL club as we usually attend the Belfield Bowling Club's disco.

When we left the club at about 12.30 AM NP58 - myself walked to where he had parked his car only to find it was missing. We then walked back to our friends to tell them that some car had been stolen. We all walked around looking for NP58 car for 10-15 minutes of the provisions of the "Oaths Act 1900."

And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true and by virtue

STATUTORY DECLARATION

I, I42 of [redacted]
Parramatta in the State of New South Wales,

do solemnly and sincerely declare as follows:

→ eventually went back into the club - told several employees what had happened → they then gave us the phone number of the police.

The police told us to come down to the station - report to them as Louis Mantyas drove us down in his vehicle + from the police station home.

*The people besides I47 that were in his vehicle was his sister, a fellow I knew as [redacted], [redacted], myself + NP58

I have no knowledge who stole the vehicle. I am sure NP58 had nothing to do with its destruction. In fact I don't believe NP58 the type of person who would consider an act such as happened.

The vehicle in my opinion was average to just above average. To my knowledge the only problem to have had with it was an oil leak. NP58 had not mentioned that he had any intentions of selling the vehicle

And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true and by virtue of the provisions of the "Oaths Act 1900."
