

'KILLER COULD STRIKE AGAIN'

THE murder of the male Oxford Street club entertainer known as Wendy has thrown fear into the Darlinghurst area.

Wayne Brennan, 35, was found lying naked face down on the floor of his flat in Darlinghurst Road, Kings Cross, at midday yesterday.

Brennan was known professionally on the streets of Kings Cross as Wendy Waine or Wendy Brennan.

Police say he was a transvestite and well known to prostitutes and other Kings Cross personalities.

Brennan had not been seen since 9.30 am on Sunday and a friend, Kenneth Beckham, who had become worried about him, went to his flat to investigate.

Beckham found the door partially open and discovered Brennan naked in a pool of blood.

Brennan had been hit on the back of the head before being shot twice between the shoulder blades and at the base of the skull.

Police believe he was shot with a large calibre weapon, possibly a .45 automatic pistol.

Beckham, 22, of East Sydney, said: "I just hope the police find this killer quickly because I have no doubt that he will strike again."

He said Brennan was a considerate person who had always considered the problems of others before his own.

He was also well liked by the people who saw him perform at Pete's Beat nightclub in Oxford Street.

"For her to die like that isn't fair because of all people she didn't deserve to cop it," he said.

Police believe Brennan may have been lying there for more than 36 hours.
