Dear John,

No phone call tonight!
What a whoopee week.

I had had such a gutful of one knowing oneself in front of a train that I hang his mother.

News - "Oh he's doing that again is he?" and so on. Then NP215 * his mother had a doozy of an argument, I got yelled at, at maximum decibels, and 2 days later all is lovey dovey. It is unreal.

Then two days ago we, ^(he) become (genuinely) ill.

I have my own concern on the health business, and my own theory.

As to diets - It's the same diet you are on. Alcohol is not banned but I now have two alcohol free days to an alcohol day. Left, low so to speak. That's the average and it's getting more alcohol free than alcohol etc.

I think it is all working. However, Jim not exercising.

I also had a visit with the physio the other day. I presented up - welcomed by the Dr and the Nutritionist - sent off to have blood tests, returned to waiting room, Dr & Nutritionist see me there and then Jim ignored for an hour. I got fed up and left after a few quiet (for me!) words.

 When the Physio rang to apologise
 I was still very angry and told him
 so. The upshot is I won't be seeing him again! He was why I was there!
 Anyway, that's life.

You must be happy, content, relaxed, in euphoria etc etc with your lodger.

It's great to have someone to talk to, work with, cook for etc etc etc ESPECIALLY when there is that compatibility between the people concerned.

Anyway - Jim still here & alive & kicking

Hope to see you soon.
 Cheers.

Ken

Sunday

Dear John,

How was harry's first week at work. I hope all went well for him.

Things have been very up & down with NP215. I have been encouraging and developing independence and it seems to have worked. Trips to Sauna and all that.

He has met some-one here at the Sauna - (after flouncing out after an argument) and he spent Thursday night with him as I was on a country trip. I knew all about it, gave it 'approval' because it encouraged independence. Yes and all that happened of course and of course, once it was known I was away on Thursday he had two other offers. Good luck to him. I hope it shows he can do it on his own.

He's not here at the moment because we have had a blue - I got into trouble for not cleaning up. Trouble was I hadn't finished making the mess (relaxing so I walked out. On my way back 4 hours later I passed him down the street going off somewhere. I get this constant barrage of the fact that Jim causing the break up so he doesn't have to do anything such as leaving. I may have to cancel the lease and move out!

Purpose of all this is to let off steam, and let you know of the Trauma happening. Jim glad the suicide stuff has diminished - I just get a mouthful of "others want me" He doesn't take the hint when I suggest he go to them!

Sorry about all this. It makes me feel a bit better: don't take it on board.

Have fun. Jim hoping to have a week-end in Melbourne, soon, soon.

Cheers

Jim
