| 8. | Although it was 198 who introduced Ross WARREN to 1409 he believes 1409 to be a compulsive liar and of unsavoury character; a person who 198 feels not only has few emotional feelings, but is also nasty and conniving. 1409, according to 198 is also psychologically harmful to his friends. Although he initially presents as a genuine type of person, 198 says that 1409 is continually forced to move from one group of friends to another as the members alienate him when they find out that he is not what he appears to be. 198 is immediate circle of friends has long since ceased associating with 1409 as they believe him to be totally untrustworthy and to have a malicious personality. |
|-----|--|
| 9. | Subsequent to WARREN's disappearance, I409 is alleged to have become involved in a relationship with a male student named 'James'. It was claimed by 198 that 1409 had told friends 'James' had been murdered in Hawaii on Christmas Day 1993 or New Years Day 1994. 1409 is alleged to have described in detail how he had arranged for the body to be transported to 'James' family in Ohio. 198 says that since being told by 1409 of 'James' death he has seen the young man and he is alive and well and is apparently still involved in a relationship with 1409 |
| 10. | In terms of the circumstances surrounding WARREN's disappearance, 198 says that he knows only what he has learned from media reports. He knows that WARREN's car had been located in the eastern suburbs and that WARREN had last been seen in the early hours of the morning at the 'Midnight Shift' nightclub in Oxford Street, Darlinghurst. |
| 11. | The pedestrian walkway between south Bondi and Tamarama beaches is known by 198 to be a homosexual 'beat', that is, an area in which homosexual men meet for the purpose of having sexual intercourse. WARREN is alleged by 198 to have said often that he did not like the 'beat' scene and that he did not attend these areas, however, 198 believes that WARREN may have just said this as an excuse because he may have felt uncomfortable if it were known that he participated in the 'beat' scene. 198 said that WARREN knew the Bondi/Tamarama walkway was an established homosexual 'beat'. |
| 12. | l98 believes that it is possible WARREN may have committed suicide, but believes that if he did it would not have been done in an area and in circumstances that would have drawn attention to the fact that he was homosexual. WARREN was, according to 198 a private person who did not advertise that he was gay as this may have hampered his career as a television presenter, a career which he enjoyed and one of which he was very proud. 198 was of the opinion that WARREN's family were not aware he was gay and that he did not want them to know. |
| 13. | Albeit the possibility of suicide cannot be discounted 198 feels that 1409 may have been motivated to murder Ross WARREN for ending their relationship. 1409 s reaction to WARREN's disappearance was, in the opinion of 198 'understated', something he considers to be unusual. Furthermore, 198 says that 1409 had become quite panicky about the possibility of being |

| | investigated by Police in relation to the circumstances in which WARREN went missing. These factors have influenced 198 to suspect that 1409 may have been responsible for the disappearance of Ross WARREN. |

| 14. | Ross 1409 s employment was to subsequently provide Police with the means by which his legitimacy as a suspect responsible for the disappearance of Ross WARREN could be tested. |
| 15. | Inquiries conducted with William DAVENPORT, Qantas Security Manager, were to disclose that 1409 left Australia as air crew on a flight through Asia on the morning of the 20 July, 1989 and did re-enter the country until the 24 July, 1989. |
